

Executive Branch Departments Research Project

You and a partner will be assigned one cabinet position department. We will use the Internet to research your department. You will then put together a simple poster, which will advertise your department. Your classmates will learn about the departments from your poster.

Requirements:

Background

- What is the purpose and usefulness of the department
- When was it formed?
- Outline of agencies within the department, or basic functions of the department

Current Events

- Current head (secretary)
- Specific issues it is dealing with today

Poster

- Design an advertising poster, which favorably depicts your department and how it helps the people of the United States. Include the information that you researched in the library and on the Internet. Make it neat and attractive; remember this is an advertising poster.

This will be worth 20 points:
